

MPUS NEWS

Nursing grads get pinned

Graduate nursing students, from left: JoAnn Cole, Mellye Johnson, Freda Kelly, and others. (Photo by Ann Brown)

By Kim Brown

It took four years and 4000 hours of work to earn their Master's, but the nursing graduates of the University of Northern Iowa are now ready to take on the world.

Graduates who took the oath of nursing at the University of Northern Iowa are now ready to take on the world. They are now ready to take on the world.

Graduates who took the oath of nursing at the University of Northern Iowa are now ready to take on the world. They are now ready to take on the world.

Graduates who took the oath of nursing at the University of Northern Iowa are now ready to take on the world. They are now ready to take on the world.

to know their Master's degree.

"It really isn't," said Graduate Mellye Johnson. "It's really just a matter of time."

Johnson, who also is a nurse, said, "For three years, I've been suffering sleep deprivation and high stress, but it was definitely worth it. Now I'm a graduate of the University of Northern Iowa."

Johnson said that there are many jobs available to graduates, but that there were a few times that she was disappointed. She said that she was disappointed when she was not selected for a position at the University of Northern Iowa.

Johnson said that there are many jobs available to graduates, but that there were a few times that she was disappointed. She said that she was disappointed when she was not selected for a position at the University of Northern Iowa.

Johnson, who also is a nurse, said, "For three years, I've been suffering sleep deprivation and high stress, but it was definitely worth it. Now I'm a graduate of the University of Northern Iowa."

Johnson said that there are many jobs available to graduates, but that there were a few times that she was disappointed. She said that she was disappointed when she was not selected for a position at the University of Northern Iowa.

Johnson said that there are many jobs available to graduates, but that there were a few times that she was disappointed. She said that she was disappointed when she was not selected for a position at the University of Northern Iowa.

Johnson said that there are many jobs available to graduates, but that there were a few times that she was disappointed. She said that she was disappointed when she was not selected for a position at the University of Northern Iowa.

Easy riders

Students of the University of Northern Iowa are now ready to take on the world. They are now ready to take on the world.

Woodworking students honored

By Kim Brown

University of Northern Iowa's woodworking students were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking.

The students were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking. They were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking.

The students were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking. They were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking.

The students were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking. They were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking.

The students were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking. They were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking.

Kim Brown

The students were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking. They were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking.

The students were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking. They were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking.

The students were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking. They were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking.

The students were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking. They were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking.

The students were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking. They were honored for their achievements in the field of woodworking.

CONESTOGA LIFE

The CSEA associates (left) Michael H. Dyer (middle) and Emily Lambert (right) are conducting a meeting in the Conestoga College building. The meeting was to discuss new program plans for the summer week beginning September 4.

ion slogan

will be called for. Students in the program will be asked to provide a slogan.

After planning will begin the first day of the program. The program will be held in the Conestoga College building.

The first program will be a presentation on the program. The program will be held in the Conestoga College building.

After planning will begin the first day of the program. The program will be held in the Conestoga College building.

After planning will begin the first day of the program. The program will be held in the Conestoga College building.

Core Literacy seeks help from Conestoga

By Don Ross

Kathleen Webster's Core Literacy program is a literacy program that helps people develop literacy skills in reading, writing, and speaking. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

an adult literacy program in the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

Vending machines shift in new directions and behind the counter. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

By Andrew Weiss

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

The program is a part of the Conestoga College building. The program is a part of the Conestoga College building.

Construction has turned Conestoga College into a building. The building is a part of the Conestoga College building.

Photo by Don Ross

